KEI Interview

Project: Timmy Failure: Mistakes Were Made

Director: Tom McCarthy

How would you describe the plot of this project?

A 10-year-old boy creates his own detective agency to make the world a better place.

What was your fondest memory from working on the project?

Shooting the bank scene with my fellow castmate, Winslow - aka Timmy.

Were there any cool locations or sets that were fun/different/strange?

The Bonneville Dam in Washington State, was the coolest location. The sheer amount of water was awesome!

Do you recall any particular memories with castmates or crew that were impactful?

Our director, Tom's ability to bring out the best of us in challenging scenes.

Did the project inspire you to see the world differently? Or did you learn anything new about the production process?

This inspired me to always be myself and care more about global warming so polar bears like Total don't become extinct.

What stands out to you from working on this project?

The friendships I made that endure to this day.

If you were to produce a sequel or a continuation of this project, what would that be like?

We would continue to explore the relationship between best friends, Timmy and Rollo along with environmental issues.

What do you love most about the Entertainment Industry? What do you wish could be better?

Pursuing a career in the Entertainment Industry allows me to get paid to do what I love and learn new things along the way. I would like to see the long hours shortened.
